Eighteen projects were completed in 2019, bringing the total number of building projects in Hong Kong to 12,134. This is a 9.5% increase from 2018, with the vast majority of the projects located in the Central and Western District. The number of completed projects is 11,212, as most of the new projects are part of large-scale developments. According to the HKHB, the average number of properties covered in building plans filed every year between 2005 and 2018 is 20,066. This number reached its highest in 2014, and has decreased since then. The number is 15,825 in 2019, representing a 0.4% decrease from the previous year. If you are an architect or building planner, you need to keep track of what is happening in the building industry in Hong Kong. Over the years, the local building industry has changed greatly. On May 9, the Provisional Legislative Council (PLC) passed the 2019 Budget Ordinance on behalf of the government, taking into consideration the 2019/2020 fiscal year. The scope of the budget covers many important aspects, including tax and financial affairs. The 2019 Budget is one of the toughest budgets the government has faced since the handover in 1997. As the storm winds of Covid-19 come over Hong Kong, developers should be aware of how they need to address these matters. For instance, developers have to consider how to provide a shelter to their tenants, as the government has closed all the residential hotels. Some developers had already started the process in the past few weeks.
